Carnegie Endowment for International Peace

1779 Massachusetts Avenue NW, Washington, D.C.

May 14, 2016 marks the eighth anniversary of the imprisonment of seven Bahá'í leaders in Iran. Join us for a screening of the new BBC Persian documentary film Iranian Revolutionary Justice, which includes never-before-seen footage of the secret trial of eight Bahá'í leaders in Iran in the 1980s – all of whom were executed following the trial.

The screening will be followed by a panel discussion with experts on human rights in Iran.

Panelists

Salim Nakhjavani, University of the Witwatersrand & former prosecutor at Khmer Rouge tribunal

Dokhi Fassihian, Freedom House

Farid Haerinejad, journalist & documentary filmmaker

Roxana Saberi, author of Between Two Worlds: My Life and Captivity in Iran

Moderator

Mariam Memarsadeghi, Tavaana

All are welcome. Please feel free to share this invitation with others.
